

*My conviction: Kidnapping Robbery
 And Parole eligibility: 7/24/2016*

LMFAO...

Wow. Times sure have changed! Whatever happened to getting to know someone through putting pen to paper? Has technology just taken away all humanity and the authenticity of a cheap way to make a person smile and escape a lonely place by taking 10 minutes to express how you feel, when you know a person like myself is here to listen!? I don't even care what you look like, what race you are, or even your sexuality! By all means, I am not one in a position to judge!

So, if I've caught your attention, don't hesitate! Take a chance on me and I won't let you down! I have so much more to talk about and right now I'm limited with my intro. With that, let me get to the best part - me!

My name is Chris. I'm ²⁸ years young. I'm from the Bay Area, California. Since coming to prison I've changed so much for the better. I attend as many classes as I can so I don't waste doing time and learn how to become a productive member when I do get released back into society. I've obtained my high school diploma, graduated a college elective creative writing class and I've been a mentor in guiding people younger than me that are now in prison and want to change. My heart is in it and I do my best to live an honest life the best way I can!

I love the new me and I know that whoever you are, you will love me too. Write me and let's get lost with all this paper and ink. I'm only a stamp away and an envelope filled with magic.
