UPDATED: 12:23 pm MDT June 23, 2011

Garfield County Sheriff's Office

SALT LAKE CITY -- A counselor at a southern Utah residential center for troubled teens has been charged with eight counts of forcible sex abuse for alleged assaults on a female resident.

Court records show 28-year-old Eric Allen Glosson, of Tucson, Ariz., is scheduled for an initial appearance in 6th district court in Panguitch on Thursday.

Along with the eight second-degree felonies, Glosson is charged with one count each of having sex with a youth receiving state services and dealing in materials harmful to minors. It wasn't immediately clear whether Glosson had an attorney.

Garfield County Spokeswoman Becky Bronson told KTVX of Salt Lake City that Glosson worked at the Silverado Academy, which is owned by former Utah U.S. Senate candidate Tim Bridgewater.

The facility reported allegations of abuse to authorities on Sunday.
